MONS. BEUCAIRE AT HIGH SCHOOL

Since the opening of school there has been no time wasted by the students who remember the Princeton he Literary Society, for they have ready planned a Columbus centennial

This entertainment is to be given in the high school auditorium Friday evening, Oct. 7, by Miss Grace Sage, a member of the faculty of the Highland Powers School at Boston, an artist of remarkable dramatic ability. Miss Sage is to give an evening's program "Monsieur Beaucaire" by Booth Tarkington. This novel treats of the adventures of a French nobleman and was made classic by Richard Mansfield's wonderful interpretation.

Edward N. Burns, vice-president of the Columbia Graphophone Company, gave of Miss Sage.

"Her programs are exceedingly interesting and are presented with simplicity and charm. Her pleasing personality and her comprehensive choice of material are all tokens of sufficient reason for making her a delight to the audiences that are fortunate enough to hear her."

Miss Sage has appeared recently everywhere in the eastern United States.

Tickets may be purchased for the members of the organization. The object of the entertainment is to raise funds with which to defray expenses arising from civic well and charitable work.

UNWASHED ANCESTORS.

Tuberculosis would disappear for the lack of possible victims if everybody took a bath every day, according to Sir James Crichton-Brown, the eminent medical authority. This will be denied as all such assertions are, and no doubt it is an exaggeration, yet it is interesting as showing how great a revolution there has been in this particular in little more than half a century. Daily "ablutions" are now common in both England and America, but if we are to judge by the accounts of our American ancestors of the first half of the nineteenth century suffered from something like a cat's dread of water, at least as applied to the whole body. Yet there is tradition to the effect that they had stronger physical constitutions than we have. If the medical authority quoted above is right, how did they manage to keep their health and vigor. This question suggests that certain facts that have come down to us tend to convey an exaggerated impression.

We read, for example, that when the first American bathtub was built in Cincinnati in 1842 the medical profession heaped censure upon the author of this bold and dangerous innovation. Such excitement followed in Philadelphia that a law to make bathing illegal from November 1 to March 15 was defeated by a margin of only two votes. Boston actually passed such an ordinance which was not repealed until 1862, the learned bean-eaters holding that no one should bathe except upon the prescription of a physician. Today such notions seem but little above the intellectual level of the African king who boasted to Livingston that he had not bathed in 30 years.

ROOM FOR BOTH.

The coming conference of six nations at Washington on the limitation of armaments has been enthusiastically described as "the greatest step for world peace that has ever been taken." It is a great step, but whether it is the greatest will depend on whether the six nations accomplish more than the 39 League nations now represented at Geneva and have the limitation of armaments on their program. True friends of world peace, untroubled by partisanship, will wish both assemblies the greatest possible measure of success in this connection. Such a friendly attitude toward both is the more appropriate because this is precisely the attitude of the five nations that will send representatives to the Washington conference, all of them being members of the League of Nations with representatives at Geneva.

This fact is worth the attention of those who speak of the Washington conference as if it were a new "association of nations" already existing and destined to displace the older body. Before it can become anything of that sort the new "association" must be announced, the five League members coming to Washington will have to quit the older body, join the new, and invite their associates to follow their example. Whether this will be done is at least doubtful. Meanwhile there is plenty of room for the discussion of disarmament by both bodies, and true friends of world peace will hope that both may accomplish something worth while.

The United States and England have been at peace 106 years and the 2000-mile Canadian boundary has been unassailed as well as undefended for 53 years. So far as the United States and the British empire are concerned, a disarmament agreement is needed only in order to cut down costs.

A set unreasonable explanation of the great crowding of the colleges in spite of business depression is given in the Associated Press statement that many who in normal times "would stay at bench or desk" have decided to equip themselves for "a profession, now that they are out of work."

In spite of all the wailing and woe, the German government is said to have "comfortably" returned the payment of the billion and marks on the reparations bill due in August 21. Unwashed Germany came out of the war in much better shape in the matter of material resources than did devastated France.

Cotton declined from the 43 cent war price to 11 cents, with no corresponding decline in the price of cotton goods. Now that cotton has advanced to 18 cents, no doubt this will be seized upon as sufficient excuse to return to war prices on cotton goods.

Though one of prohibition America's most important booze fountains, Nassau, capital of the Bahamas, is said to be so temperate in its own indulgence that drunkenness is entirely unknown there.

What do you want to know about Nature Subjects? Send any questions of general interest to the Nature Notes Dept. of this paper. Look for answers in this column.

Can You Answer These Questions?

1. Can you identify a spider with yellow back that spins a web each evening on the rose bushes or vines, removing the web every morning? Is it poisonous?

2. Do both male and female cedar wax-wing have the little red "sealing-wax" tips on their wings?

3. Is a chameleon a snake or a lizard?

Answers in Tomorrow's Nature Notes

Answers To Previous Questions.

1. Is the Persian cat the same as an Angora?

Yes, it is supposed to have been developed from a wild cat called "manul" from east of the Caspian Sea. Its fur was longer and softer than fur of other wild cats and it had a short, ringed tail. The luxurious Angora of today is said to be the product of artificial selection, by which the short tail was replaced by a long tail, through crossing these Oriental cats with domestic long-tailed breeds.

2. Will birds eat peanuts?

Unroasted peanuts are good winter food for insect-eating and seed-eating birds, or any shelled-out nuts.

Tracing Fashions To Their Source—The Flat-Top Autumn Derby—Long And Lean Effect In Jackets—The Wing Is The Thing—Wide, Straight Trousers

New York, September 17

WHERE do men's fashions come from?

This question, often asked a seldom answered, perhaps, because, fashions come from everywhere and anywhere; from London, New York and Paris; from the soldier and from the sportsman; from the swarthy King Alfonso and from the merry Prince of Wales; from tailors, haberdashers and bootmakers; from travelers and observers; sometimes even from a garment accidentally cut wrong which seems to look more right than the right thing would. It is said that the late King Edward of England changed to leave the top button of his lounge jacket unfastened, and this at once became the thing among practitioners of fashion, who saw a set purpose in what was merely casual and irrelevant.

A fashion is baffling to trace to its source, for, sometimes, it might be adopted to disguise a fancied shortcoming, as in the case of the celebrity who always wore his hat low upon his head, because he imagined that his ears were too prominent.

Bowler Alias Derby

What the Englishman is pleased to term a bowler, and what the American prefers to call the derby is a hat which is regaining some of its former vogue, but which, nevertheless, is still much less worn than the crush hat. The fashionable derby of Autumn reveals the low crown and the snug brim which have been the mode during several successive seasons. Portrayed in the top sketch is a new effect—the flat-top crown with a brim of similar contour. Such a block goes well with top-coated September days, when a man looks broader of shoulder and requires a hat of fuller proportions. To be sure, black is preferred by the generality of men, though the brown and the pearl-tinted derby, with a black ribbon, are promising colors when worn by men who know how to "carry off" an extreme fashion with a bit of élan.

A Slenderizing Suit

Long, lean lines are a characteristic of some Autumn suits. This effect is procured by having the lapels narrow and slender and by squaring off the skirts in front and cutting them in the outline of an inverted V. The foregoing illustration pictures what is meant. Such a 2-button jacket has full, natural shoulders and a straight look to the whole garment. The waistcoat is exposed above the opening of the coat.

The Wings of Fashion

Flying back upon the wings of fashion is the tab collar, as reproduced alongside. This good-looking form has been out of general vogue for some years and is only now beginning to inch back into favor. The wings are deep and slanting and underneath is a fashionable bow-knot with a some centre and wide, squarish ends. The tie is black with a bright diagonal stripe, figured, in a contrasting color.

Trousers Same Turn-Ups

For comfortably town wear, the plain-bottom trousers are perhaps smarter than those with turn-ups, though the choice rests with the individual, rather than with fashion. Trousers are now cut straight and a bit wide, narrowing slightly from the knee downward and having only a shade, if at all, over the boot-top. Pointing the tops of trousers is a practice which commends itself to men who have reached the age when, in some way, you have acquired a "bummy" and a tamper.

Last Minute Modes of the Week

London stocks in a shade to Autumn suitings which is again drifting into favor after a partial eclipse. Silk handkerchiefs frequently replace linen for use with the morning and lounge suit.

Better gloves, with soft creased wrists, are again to be met upon travelers who have just crossed from London.

Sweet, figs, crumbs and similar soft foods must be provided for insect eaters.

3. How many of the eggs laid by fish reach maturity?

We take it you mean grow into mature fish. Under natural conditions, relatively few. Some are not fertilized, some are eaten, and many reach only infant-fish size before eaten. In hatcheries, under artificial care, fully three-fourths of the eggs are reared successfully. Trout and salmon particularly are reared in quantities.

Settled For $300.

A suit for personal damages instituted by Carmello Quinte of Newburgh against John A. DuBois, proprietor of the Newburgh-Marlborough motor-bus line, was settled on Thursday by the payment of $300. Quinte, while in the employ of the New York Telephone Co., was injured when one of DuBois's busses tried to pass between a moving trolley car and a pole belonging to the telephone company in North Water street, Newburgh, several months ago. The top of the bus was knocked off and struck Quinte. His lawyer, Jacob A. Decker, brought suit against DuBois and the New York Telephone Co., on the ground that the pole had been permitted to lean out into the roadway and thus constitute an obstruction. Later, by an order from Justice Seeger, the action was discontinued as against the telephone company.

OUR SECULAR EDUCATIONAL PLAN

Editor Kingston Freeman:

What the country wants is a greater, a more scholarly secular education; an increase of classical knowledge of the world's affairs, national and international. Think how "college-taught youth" fumbled at the inquisition on "Current Events" as disclosed by the N. Y. Tribune, issue of September 5. It is astonishing, not to say alarming. We will give only two examples out of nearly a score, showing the ignorance of some college students. Out of thirty-six college juniors in the State College several could not tell who "Uncle Sam" is. Asking Charles Evans Hughes was said to have been "President Wilson's secretary." "Wants to Conquer Russia." The report says that 1,500 high school students in the second term of the junior year, best the freshman mark, averaging 55 per cent. High school freshmen numbering 2,340 scored only 35 per cent. This mark was beaten by 2,250 grammar school seniors, with 42 per cent average. Seventh grade pupils, a group of 1,500, earned 30 per cent.

The questions were by the Review of Reviews, and were simple and easy, and it does seem that any brilliant 13-year-old common school boy could answer them all. These questions are from the most favored young men and women in high schools and colleges for whose education labor and capital alike are being taken from $150 to $500 a year a student, besides the cost of their support and the worth of their time while studying; so says the report. First it was Mr. Edison who said that "the alumnus did not know much, at least not so much as he should as the result of his higher education," and proved the assertion by producing a code of questionnaires which were "fumbled" by many university graduates who sought employment in his enterprises. The Tribune's report comes from the Institute for Public Service, giving the results of a test, disclosing to the world college men's ignorance or not a clear understanding respecting current events, problems, etc. etc.

It is a question in the writer's mind whether or no the common district schools are turning out the primary accomplishment and efficiency of scholarships as equal to that of 50 years ago. We doubt it, and much prefer the former methods.

L. DEWITT GRISWOLD,
Formerly a teacher.
Sept. 3, 1921.

The Rev. Paul Nalencz, vicar of St. Mark's Chapel, New York, who threatens to use force if necessary, to keep Charles Ledoux out of his church. If Ledoux persists in carrying out his plans of auctioning off unemployed men in New York. While in New York on previous visits, Mr. Ledoux had made St. Mark's Chapel his unemployed headquarters. "He will certainly not attempt any auctioning in this church while I am here," the vicar said. "In these days we need sensible projects to relieve distress, not wild dreams. We need no men anxious to get into the newspapers with all sorts of dramatic contrivances."

Fidelity of a Telegrapher.
One striking example of the early spirit of endurance under great stress of which the telegrapher of the old school was capable was given by John Carnahan, then a young man in his thirties, at the time of the Custer massacre, says an exchange. He was operator and newspaper correspondent at Bismarck, which was the nearest telegraph office to the scene of Custer's last fight, 500 miles west. Attending his regular duties, and gathering here and there from looting scouts and plains stragglers the thrilling story of Custer to send to the anxiously waiting world, he worked 40 hours without rest, and for several days and nights he only caught a few winks of sleep, yet all the newspaper-reading world was eagerly grasping for the thousands of words of story he was gathering. They never knew how one man was working to satisfy them.

GIANTS ALMOST CINCH PENNANT

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

New York, Sept. 19.—John Joseph McGraw is about to string up his seventh National League pennant.

John's surprising New York Giants are as good as in with the 1921 gonfalon today and while they haven't clinched it mathematically nothing but a miracle can stop them now.

With a four and a half game lead over Pittsburgh Pirates New York has easy sailing ahead for the task confronting George Gibson's team should they win the pennant is mountainous.

The American League presents a pennant race today that is still a toss up between the New York Yankees and the Cleveland Indians.

The Yanks, by winning Sunday while the Indians lost, regained first place which they now hold by two points.

There is little to choose between the teams from a standpoint of what each has in back of it. The Yanks, for instance, have the best of the playing schedule. The Indians have the edge in the way of morale.

Friday, Saturday and Sunday next, the race in the junior major should be definitely decided as Cleveland will invade the Polo Grounds.

HOLY CROSS PARISH HOUSE.

Reception for Father and Wider Community Activities.

The local branch of the Girls' Friendly Society have issued cards to all parishioners of Holy Cross Church, over sixteen years of age, to a reception to be held Tuesday evening, to meet the rector of the parish. It will be the first time that the entire parish has gotten together socially since the rebuilding and consecration of the parish house, and it will likewise mark the opening of the season's program of activities which will take place in the Pine Grove avenue community centre.

From then on the many societies and classes which hold forth in Holy Cross house will start their meetings, and by October all will be in full swing. A program of songs by Messrs. Harry Clearwater, Herman Latour, Clifford Meigs and a male quartet will be offered for the entertainment of the guests while Father's orchestra will play throughout the evening for the young people to dance.

Holy Cross Parish House which was built by the Rev Charles McEwen Hall more than twenty-five years ago has long served an excellent purpose. During the last autumn and winter it was renovated completely, the front ell rebuilt and added on to, another floor put in, thereby giving more rooms for the various organizations and new steam heating plant installed, at nine thousand dollars' expense. As it stands today it is one of the best equipped parish houses in the diocese of New York and probably the best in the Hudson valley.

Except during the Lenten season of last year it was used by more than nine hundred individuals each week. The present rector of Holy Cross says that the work has but begun, and that he hopes further to equip it and make it of even more service to the community. We have confidently held that while the parish organizations naturally have first call on the house, yet it has been opened to and is used by numerous persons outside of the parish and that without any thought of proselytizing, on the part of Holy Cross.

Many Candidates, Few Votes.

At least a score of names were written in on the ballot primary day for Democratic candidate for member of assembly. Louis Rogers, Sr., of Kingston, however, will go on the ticket, having received 24 votes, all in the city. J. Francis McFadden received 12 votes and James Rice, 11.

Outside the city several names were written in but in many districts there were no votes counted, the majority of these in the country districts received but one vote each.

Lines to Be Remembered.

Anger shows out the lamp of the mind in the examination of great and important questions everyone should be serene, slow paced and calm.—R. G. Rogers.

Wives Placed in Pawn.

A report received at The Free Man from the North states that an Eskimo trader on route to a trading post to sell his furs, disposed of four of his wives, each for a pound of tea and some tobacco. The purchaser was following a custom existing from the Brachette post of the Hudson's Bay Company, heavily laden with supplies. As it is the custom of the Eskimos, the original owner may redeem his wives upon payment of double the purchase price.

REGULARS TAKE DOUBLE HEADER

The stock of the Poughkeepsie Regulars in the Hudson Valley Semi-Pro League took a big boost Sunday afternoon. In the play-off of the disputed Labor Day game with the Schatz team, and in a regulation contest that followed the play-off, the Regulars were returned victors in both games.

The Regulars won the disputed game by a score of 7 to 2. Play was resumed from the seventh inning, score 2 to 1 in favor of the Regulars, Schatz at bat.

The second game was a hard fought battle, the Regulars emerging on the long end of a 5 to 4 score. Stanfield, the left-hander who defeated the Colonials last Sunday, was in the box for Wetmore's men. He was opposed by Campion, who had shut out the Regulars in the first game between the two teams.

Hamilton a Hot Fan.

When it comes to ardent baseball fans, it is hard to beat "Jimmie" Hamilton, Colonial rooter extraordinaire. "Jimmie" has seen every game which the Colonials have played, and is always pulling for the Kingston boys to win. No autos or trains for "Jimmie." Sunday he made the trip to Newburgh and returned, a distance of 64 miles, on a bicycle. But as the Colonials won out, "Jimmie" figures it was worth the trip.

Ash Best Material for Bats.

In making baseball bats no substitute for wood has been found, says the American Forestry Magazine. Ash has won the leading place. Several qualities must be considered in selecting wood for bats, but the most essential are weight and strength. The shock and strain are severe at the moment of impact when the well-aimed blow meets the flying ball in midair and almost instantly stops it and sends it in the opposite direction. If the wood is not excellent the blow shatters it.

CULLOTON WAS RIGHT; SCORE 6-2

Newburgh Independents Produced Another Good Pitcher But Threw the Game Away With Errors.

Back again in their normal stride after their disaster of last Sunday, the Colonials took the measure of the Newburgh Independents at the Hilly City Sunday afternoon. The Kingston boys helped themselves to 6 runs during the nine innings, while the Newburgh aggregation could gather but 2 off the delivery of "Bud" Culloton.

Desmond Park, the playing field of the Independents, was crowded to capacity to watch the Colonials perform. It was expected that the mysterious "O'Malley" would be in the box for the Newburgh club, but for some reason or other he was not on hand. A left-hander named Kelly, a native of the metropolitan district, occupied the mound in his stead, and pitched a highly creditable game. An excellent change of pace was his chief asset.

Kelly's good work went for naught, however, his team mates making 9 errors behind him. Each of the six Kingston runs was helped along by misplays on the part of the down river club. In one inning, the eighth, the Colonials scored three runs with only one hit on their part. Every Newburgh player but Martin, Huston and Lester, who entered the game in the seventh inning, was charged with at least one error.

Culloton limited the Hilly City aggregation to six hits, one less than Kelly allowed. In only one inning did "Bud" allow more than one safety. In the sixth Hopshe led off with a double and scored when McDonald singled to left. The latter was caught trying to stretch his hit into a double, and after that "Bud" was never in trouble.

Culloton received some excellent support from his comrades, only one error being made behind him. McAuliffe played first in fine style, and Deegan showed the Newburgh fans why the Giants are after him. One stop behind second base was of the kind that has made Dave Bancroft famous.

The Independents were first to draw blood. Martin received Culloton's only pass of the game to start the second inning, and went to second on Nuhn's out. When Cy Connors dropped Huston's high fly for Kingston's only error, Martin crossed with the first run.

The Colonials evened it up in the fourth. McAuliffe first up, singled, and went to second on McDonald's overthrow. Deegan sacrificed him to third, and Robins kept up the good work with a single to left, sending McAuliffe home.

A tie score never won a ball game, thought Artie Rice as he led off the fifth with a single and went to second when Nuhn failed to field the ball. Kelly contributed to his own downfall when he picked up Moore's sacrifice and threw it past Martin, Rice crossing the plate.

After Newburgh had drawn up on even terms in the sixth, Kingston proceeded to draw away from them in the seventh. With one down Moore reached first on Hopshe's error. Culloton hit one on the nose, and when the ball was back in the infield Moore had scored and "Bud" was on second.

The final scoring was done in the eighth. Two were down when Connors reached second on Hopshe's wild throw. "Fritz" O'Mara, who had taken Schwab's place in the third, singled between third and short. Rice hit to Hopshe and that obliging young man kindly erred again, letting Connors score. Shay also was seized with the fever, and his throw in home went to the grand stand. O'Mara scoring, Rice taking third. When Huston allowed one to get by him Artie crossed the plate with the final run of the game.

SEPTEMBER—the start of the season of fall brides. There are more brides in September, October and November than in any other three months of the year. Therefore more silverware used for presents.

SEPTEMBER—when most spring brides are settling down to housekeeping. Most all of them need more silverware.

The vests are V neck with long sleeves; pants are ankle length, regular winter weight. Ribbed fleece garments.

Don't buy them unless you are convinced that they are a real bargain.

NOTICE—We very seldom buy seconds in any kind of merchandise but these garments looked so good we saw the opportunity to give our customers a real bargain.

All sizes 36 to 44. Just 768 pieces in the lot and that wouldn't be half enough if you knew how good they are.
